Ducks to race for care trust

BRIGHT yellow ducks will be racing along the River Wey this week as part of a Surrey Care Trust fundraiser.

On Thursday June 25, the charity's annual Duck Race will be taking place at lunchtime in the town centre.

The event is sponsored by Guildford accountants PKF and other Surrey companies are supporting the event by making a donation of £300 for a particular duck.

The trust's Swingbridge community boat will also be moored in Guildford for the races and volunteers will be there helping to keep the two-foot high competitors in line.

Competitors will also be judged in the best-dressed duck competition on Thursday. All the sponsors are sent a mini-duck and invited to dress them up. Previous entrants have included Punk Duck, Harry Potter Duck and Posh Duck.

The trust, which is based in Milford, works across Surrey, aiming to create life-changing opportunities for people who face disadvantage.

It provides innovative education and training for young people and adults, as well as giving practical help to families and individuals facing hardship through its Crisis Grants fund.
